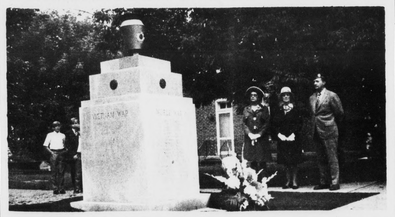
War Memorial Dedication

The flag honor guard stands at attention as William E. Galbraith, Deputy Under Secretary for Congressional Relations, Dept. of Agriculture, addresses American Legion members, families of deceased servicemen, other county residents and visitors at the dedication of a granite memorial monument to servicemen of Appomattox who lost their lives in World War I, World War II, Korea and Vietnam. Secy. Galbraith, a past national commander of the American Legion, said that the patriotic spirit evidenced at Appomattox gave him a feeling of "getting back to reality" as contrasted with entirely different attitudes shown during recent demonstrations in Washington, D.C. The service was held Sun. at 3.



With "flame of Freedom" burning bright, American Legion Post Commander Dr. Mark G. Weatherly stands at attention at the monument to Appomattox servicemen lost in wars. (To the left), Mrs. Albert (Dick) Martin and her mother, Mrs. H. C. Almond, whose son, Dewey C. Almond, was lost in World War II. Mrs. Almond and Mrs. Martin unveiled the 12,000 pound monument in ceremonies held on the Court House Square Sunday afternoon. Among the out-of-town guests was Bernard H. Gollinger, Dept. of Va. Adjutant, American Legion. In his dedicatory address, speaker William E. Galbraith, Under Secy., Dept. of Agriculture, said that "freedom must be earned from generation to generation". He said that the men commemorated have received their "knighthood from God on the field of battle" in World War I, World War II, Korea and Vietnam.
